What's New In?

Create custom contact information with Vcard Studio Express. Try the free version first! To create your first vCard, choose a template, customize the details, and save the new business card as a single file format (vCard)...Unsolicited, I've got to write this. As I've sat here with my laptop, trying to get my mind to wrap around a decision that I've been struggling with for a while now, I'm at a loss for words. I've never really been able to explain my feelings to you, so here's my attempt to put the feelings into words... I'm proud of you. I've always been proud of you for the way you've handled everything you've been put through. You've put up with way more than any other girl. You've been there to face down bullies, shunned by your peers and dragged through the mud by that loser best friend of yours. You've been through a lot, but through it all, I'm proud of you. Sometimes, all you need is a little push...not from a large, male, cis, emotionally charged, socially awkward, googling, whingeing, manipulative, elitist-D12-level-obnoxious-scummy-guy. Like a flower that needs to be tugged to bloom. You need to be pulled over to the side of the road by a strong, loving person who cares. A decent person who speaks their mind but remains unemotional, speaking in a firm, clear voice that tells you to stop. Like a cop to a drunk, they'll tell you where to go and when to stop. People who know better and still say "Stop!" to you. It's not your fault for needing a push. It's not your fault for being small. It's not your fault for being less than 5' tall. It's not your fault for being a girl. It's not your fault for being a girl on the wrong side of the tracks. It's not your fault for being a girl in a world of boys. It's not. It's nobody's fault. Not yours, and not mine, because nobody's responsible for your being a girl. Except you. You made it out. You'll make it to 30. You'll start a family. You'll have a community to protect you, a family to be proud of you. You deserve it. You earned it
